It's Election Day... Rain Slows Annual Trek to the Polls

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON
Heavy rains slowed the voter parade to the polls to a trickle early today in Ulster County.

Although the rain is expected to continue through tonight, officials are hopeful of at least an average turnout for city and town elections. In Kingston, voters will select mayor, aldermen and county legislators while in the towns voters will choose all town officials and county representatives.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig (D-L) is running for his second term with Robert F. Murphy as his Republican-Conservative opponent.

This year's election in Ulster County is characterized by hot contests in some areas and no contest in others.

Sheriff William B. Martin with the endorsement of Republicans, Democrats, Liberals and Conservatives is running for his third term unopposed. Also unopposed is Republican-Conservative Richard M. Buoro, seeking the post of county coroner in his first election bid.

In the Town of Ulster where the only race is for town councilman, voting was reported "on the light side" today.

In contrast, Saugerties voters turned out early causing an unofficial report of "very good" response at the polls.

Other candidates running unopposed include Donald E. Quick (D-6th Ward) and Mrs. Catherine O'Leary for town clerk on the Democratic ticket in the Town of Rosendale, both incumbents.

Voters will decide a proposition and two amendments on the stateside level. Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's prestige and political future is riding on the $2.5 billion transportation bond issue, Proposition No. 1. The subject of intensive campaigns during the pre-election furor, the transportation bond has been hailed as a necessity for maintaining economical mass transportation and assailed as an expense the state can ill afford.

Amendment No. 1 concerning community development proposes an entirely new article for the State Constitution which will permit the legislature to provide for a wide variety of community services and facilities when there is a public need which private enterprises cannot afford to meet on their own.

Amendment No. 2 would permit local governments to finance sewers, pumping stations and treatment plants outside the limits set by the constitution on the amounts they may borrow thus allowing more borrowing for other municipal areas.

A total of 8,070,222 state residents including 400,000 newly registered 18-to-20 year olds are eligible to vote. Polls across the state are open until 9 p.m.

For the first time the sale of alcoholic beverages will be permitted in New York State during polling hours.

The new law, enacted earlier this year allows liquor to be sold on primary and general election days during the same hours as other days.

Some New Classifications From Selective Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Selective Service System today created several new draft classifications and abolished some old ones; gave 18-year-olds 60 days, instead of five, to register for the draft; and told every man over the age of 35 he can now throw away his old draft card.

Those were some of the changes in a long list of regulations issued by the Selective Service to conform with the new draft law signed by President Nixon Sept. 28. The new rules will become effective in the more than 4,000 local draft boards in early December.

Here are some of the major changes:

—A new classification, 2-D, will be established for divinity students who are making satisfactory progress in their studies. Those who do not enter the ministry will be liable to the draft until age 35.

—A new classification, 4-G, will be established for sole surviving sons and for young men in families where a father, brother or a sister was killed in the line of duty after Dec. 31, 1959, or is captured or missing in action.

—Classification 1-Y, which covered people medically, mentally or morally unqualified to serve except in a national emergency, will be abolished. Those subject to re-examination will be classified 1-A until their status is resolved; those with disqualifications will be classified 4-F—the category previously reserved for those with major disabilities.

Alcoholism-control program recommended for armed forces and U.S. military blamed for PX corruption. Stories on page 3.

—Classification 5-A, for those over age 26 would have never been deferred and for those over the age of 35 who had been, will be abolished. The Selective Service will no longer keep active files for registrants beyond the age of 26, except for doctors, allied medical personnel and certain other unspecified registrants.

—The old rule which said every registrant born after Aug. 30, 1922, had to carry his draft card and classification on his person regardless of his age is abolished. Now registrants will be required to carry their cards only until the end of their liability to draft—age 26 for those who were never deferred, age 35 for all others.

—A new classification, 1-H, will be established. This will be for men turning 18 during 1972 and each year thereafter. All registrants will go into this administrative holding category—instead of immediately to 1-A as in the past—and will remain there until 1973 when their lottery is held. After the lottery the Selective Service director will announce a ceiling above which registrants will not be called, and everyone with numbers above that ceiling will remain 1-H during the following year, 1974, when those below the ceiling will be subject to draft. Those below the ceiling will be removed from 1-H and made 1-A or whatever classification applies.

—The 1-H category will also be assigned to men who turned 18 this year and who, after their lottery is held next year, draw numbers above the ceiling. A 1-H cutoff number also will be set for those young men turning 20 next year and subject to draft then.

—Young men will be allowed to register for the draft any time from 30 days before their 18th birthday until 30 days thereafter. The old regulations said 18-year-olds had to register within five working days of their 18th birthday.

—Veterans leaving the service, who had not registered with the draft before they went in, will not have to register when they leave, if they have discharged their military obligation.

—Persons down to the age of 18 may be appointed to local draft boards. The old minimum age was 30. Terms may run for no longer than 20 years, instead of the old 25.

—A registrant's family or employer will no longer be able to request a deferment for him. Only the registrant will be able to apply for postponements or deferments.

—Conscientious objectors who have completed their two years of alternate civilian service will be classified 4-W, a new category.

Her uncle, Stewart Raab, is at right. Five masked Filipinos broke into the house of Butler, killed the maid and critically wounded the businessman's wife. Four escaped, but one gunman, cornered by police, seized the girl until an escape plan was worked out. ## County Drug Commission Has Tough Job

Editor's Note: The Ulster County Drug Commission, by law is charged with the coordination of county programs dealing with education, prevention and therapy in the field of drugs. This third and concluding installment outlines that county program.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
The County Drug Commission was created by an act of the legislature in September and immediately went to work on a comprehensive plan for state approval.

The commission is charged with the coordination of drug control programs in three areas: education, prevention and therapy.

Its educational programs come under the heading of the Youthful Drug Abuse Program, working mainly through the eight school districts in the county. Schools institute drug control programs will have to clear them through the county commission which in turn will refer them to the state for funding. Two school districts, Ellenville and Kingston have approved programs. Kingston for $75,000 and Ellenville for $50,000. Three other school districts, Saugerties, Rondout and Onteora, have submitted programs with a total request for funds of $130,000.

A methadone maintenance program has already been set up through the commission and has been operating at the former nurse's building at Kingston hospital for the past five weeks. There are 62 persons taking treatment under that program with another 20 applications for admission on file.

Special

The Ulster County methadone program is administered through the Dutchess County program which was approved by the state last year.

The commission has already applied for 50 beds in the Renaissance program operating out of Ellenville.

Plans are also underway for the establishment of county-wide store fronts and detoxification centers in the county's three hospitals.

It is an auspicious start on a problem that does not lend itself to easy or quick solutions.

"Methadone is far from the answer," says Dr. Edmund Reppert, chairman of the drug commission. "There has been a lot of opposition to it. Methadone, is after all, an addictive drug."

But it is a substitute for heroin and it does allow a person to lead what amounts to a normal life, to hold down a job and function like a human being.

"There's been sufficient individual improvement in the people we're working with," Dr. Reppert says. "It's good to see the kids talk to each other again, to laugh again, hold down a job."

Statistics indicate that a properly administered methadone program can cut down the crime rate caused by heroin addiction. Fifty dollar a day heroin habits are not uncommon.

There are certain restrictions. A person must be at least 18 years old in order to qualify for the program and must have been a heroin addict for at least two years. The average age in Ulster County's program is about 20. Some of them have been heroin addicts for five years.

Dr. Reppert, for one, would like to see a continuing program of psychiatric help for drug abusers administered through the county mental health department. "Unfortunately that department is already overworked and understaffed," he adds.

Dr. Reppert takes the broad view on the drug problem. "There has to be something seriously wrong to drive people (young people and adults) so far apart," he says. "Perhaps it's the breakdown in the family or a breakdown in religion. I don't know if going back to what things used to be would solve the problem."

Reppert doesn't think that drug abuse is declining. Quite the opposite. "We have no evidence of drug abuse slackening off," he says. "We think it is increasing. We have serious problems in Saugerties and Ellenville. The distressing thing is that more and more kids are going directly to heroin."

"We think we can eventually cure most of the heroin addicts," Dr. Reppert says, but qualifies that with, "it's a percentage of total cure. The present programs tend to cure with a crutch. Some crutches are worse than others."

"You can get anyone off a drug, anytime, if he wants you to. The problem is keeping him off."

The county drug commission is seeking an administrator to coordinate what will eventually be a comprehensive approach to a county-wide problem.

A start has been made but the consensus is this: it isn't going to be easy, but it's got to be done.

LONDON (UPI)—A poised Queen Elizabeth, wearing ermine and velvet robe and the diamond-studded crown of state, formally opened the new session of Parliament today guarded by the heaviest force ever assembled for the occasion.

The queen told British lawmakers in a seven-minute speech England was determined to end the violence in Northern Ireland and hoped to conclude formalities to put Britain in the European Common Market.

A force of 8,000 police, many carrying guns, was mobilized to ward off the threat of a bombing. There have been two bombings in London within 24 hours and officials feared the centuries-old ceremony might be the target of another attack.

The queen, accompanied by her husband, Prince Philip, and her son, Prince Charles, traveled the three-quarter mile route from Buckingham Palace to Parliament in a horse-drawn coach. Police and paratroopers stood at three-foot intervals along the route and special branch detectives scanned the roof of Westminster Abbey across the street from Parliament.

In her speech, the Queen said she and members of the Conservative government were determined to end the bloodshed brought on by the conflict between Protestant and Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland.

"They are no less determined to continue their efforts to establish political conditions... which ensure the communities there an active, permanent and guaranteed role in the life and public affairs of the province," she said.

Court Is Final Hope Of Environmentalists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists looked to a federal appeals court today as probably their last hope in a battle to halt detonation of a giant nuclear warhead 6,000 feet underground on the isolated Alaskan island of Amchitka.

The Atomic Energy Commission says the blast, equal to five million tons of TNT, will go off no earlier than Friday.

Lawyers for the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility and six other groups planned to ask the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington for a preliminary injunction halting the explosion.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. rejected Monday their pleas that the explosion might kick off earthquakes and tidal waves, kill Alaskan and Canadian wildlife or scatter radioactive waste into the air.

He turned down their request to temporarily block the blast, final test of the five-megaton warhead for the new Spartan antiballistic-missile system.

After a week of tangled legal hassles, Hart also ordered the Justice Department to turn over to environmentalist lawyer David Sive secret government documents which Sive says confirm environmental hazards of the blast.

Sive says the government suppressed conclusions from four government agencies that the blast is dangerous. Under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, the government is required to consider the environmental consequences of anything it does and include them in an impact statement. Sive says the AEC statement in effect left out the bad news and included only the good.

The appeals court already has turned down one request for a stay of the test.

Should the appeals court turn down the environmentalists, Sive has said he'll go directly to the Supreme Court. The high court is not in session this week so the appeal for a temporary injunction would be considered by Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Officials of the conservation groups say they are pessimistic about the possibility of a favorable ruling from Burger.

Judge Hart said the environmentalists did not prove to him that the blast would cause irreversible damage to the environment. He ruled the government was carrying out its national security responsibilities in testing the warhead.

Conn. Man, German Awarded Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dr. Dennis Gabor of Stamford, Conn., inventor of the three-dimensional lensless system of photography known as holography, was awarded the 1971 Nobel Prize for physics today.

A Canadian scientist born in Germany, Gerhard Herzberg of the National Research Council in Ottawa, was awarded the 1971 Nobel Prize in Chemistry today for his research in atomic and molecular structures.

Dr. Herzberg, a physicist who was born in Hamburg and will be 67 on Christmas Day, was cited by the Royal Swedish Academy of Science "for his contributions to the knowledge of electronic structure and geometry of molecules, particularly free radicals."

He is the first Canadian to win a Nobel prize in either of the increasingly related fields of chemistry and physics.

Dr. Gabor, 71, is on the staff of the Columbia Broadcasting System's laboratories in Stamford. A native of Hungary, he moved to England in 1934, married a British woman two years later and is now a British citizen.

Dr. Gabor is the third scientist working in America to win a 1971 Nobel award of $88,000.

The others are Dr. Earl W. Sutherland Jr. of Vanderbilt University, medicine, and Prof. Simon Kuznets of Harvard, economics. The peace prize went to Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany and the prize for literature to Pablo Neruda, the Chilean poet.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Science cited Dr. Gabor for "his invention and development of the holographic method," the idea for which he has said came to him as he watched a tennis match. As the tennis ball flew back and forth at great speed, he wondered if the three-dimensional image he was watching from various spots around the court might not be captured on film.

The process he developed in 1948 at the University of London uses a laser beam, the concentrated beam of light that does not spread out the way a flashlight beam does. The three-dimensional image of an object is recorded on a photographic plate when the laser is aimed both at the object and the plate. The image is a recording of various light waves, not a visual image, and when the laser beam is again aimed at the plate, the image appears in three dimensions.

Holography, according to a Fortune magazine study, has grown into a worldwide business that grosses several hundred million dollars a year. It is used in industry, medicine, topographical mapping and media communications, wherever true dimensional depth and color is needed.

Research is under way into its use in detecting heart defects or cancer by a process called ultrasonography. Dr. Gabor also holds a patent for the use of holography for 3-D movies, but a spokesman for CBS Laboratories in Stamford said this use of the process appears to be years away.

Military Alcoholism Report: Control Program Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators have reported an estimated 130,000 alcoholics in the armed forces, but say the Pentagon has done little to treat them, preferring punishment instead.

A report today by the General Accounting Office said the Defense Department could save thousands of careers and at least $120 million a year by treating and rehabilitating alcoholics as it now does drug users.

The GAO recommended a comprehensive alcoholism-control program which would provide that alcoholism be recognized as a disease.

Although both the World Health Organization and the American Medical Association long ago recognized alcoholism as a disease, the GAO said, it found hospital commanders who "believed that chronic alcoholism and problem drinking represented moral and spiritual deficiency."

The GAO study was made at committee on alcoholism and narcotics headed by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa.

Releasing the report, Hughes criticized the armed services for paying only minor attention to modern alcoholism-control programs "compared to the effort being expended on newer, more sensationalized forms of drug abuse."

"This ignores the fact known to every expert in the drug field, that alcohol abuse causes more deaths, accidents, destruction of careers, delinquency, breakup of families, human misery and economic loss than all other forms of drug abuse combined," said Hughes, a reformer.

In its report, the GAO said that although the percentage of alcoholics in uniform is comparable to that of the civilian population, the incidence in the military "could be a more serious problem because of the frequently dangerous and critical duties involved."

Earlier this year, the Pentagon appointed an interservice task force to study the alcoholism problem.

Although a report is expected shortly, the Pentagon has told the GAO it prefers "to recognize alcoholism as a condition which is preventable and treatable through the application of enlightened attitudes and techniques." Because under current law a disease is equated with disability, alcoholics would have to be compensated financially as with a heart condition or other physical ailments, the Pentagon said. The military now treats alcoholism as misconduct, which is punishable.

Sloppy Law Enforcement Blamed for PX Corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators today blamed the U.S. military for allowing corruption, criminality and moral compromise to flourish at service clubs and post exchanges in Europe and Southeast Asia during the 1960s.

In a 300-page report summing up its three-year probe, the Senate investigations subcommittee also dressed down the Armed Services — particularly the Army — for sloppy law enforcement to the point of covering up and whitewashing scandals to protect high-ranking officers.

Among its 41 unanimous findings and conclusions, the committee also:

- Blasted three army generals, several other officers and civilian military personnel, a group of career sergeants and a host of businessmen for their roles in the world-wide web of intrigue.
- Accused the Treasury, other unnamed government agencies and a number of U.S. banks of being derelict for not moving years ago to forestall the currency black market in South Vietnam.
- Scolded a number of "large American corporations" — including the makers of Carling Beer, Jim Beam Bourbon and L&M cigarettes — for showering club and PX officials with costly favors to promote sales.
- While the committee said it was not leveling "any general indictment" against the military as a whole, it nonetheless found that "greater vigilance was in order as was greater attentiveness to duty by per-

Car Damaged In Accident

TOWN OF HURLEY
A Woodstock woman escaped injury at 1:30 p.m. Monday when she reportedly lost control of the car she was learning to drive and the vehicle hit a tree at Witchtree Road and Route 375 in West Hurley, according to the sheriff's office.

A report of Deputy Sheriff Donald Van Aken noted that Jean Lay, 28, of 17 Whitney Drive, Woodstock, driving a car owned by Frank M. Lay, same address, was making a right turn off Route 375 onto Witchtree Road when the mishap occurred.

The damaged vehicle was towed from the scene of the accident.

FAA: A Truth in Leasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has proposed a "truth in leasing" plan for large airplane users in its latest safety move following the Wichita State University football charter disaster more than a year ago.

The action, published Friday in the Federal Register, puts into the regulatory mill the last of the rules recommendations made to the FAA by a Department of Transportation task force which investigated charter operations.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe ordered the study shortly after 31 persons died as a result of the crash of Wichita's chartered two-engine plane.

A firm theoretically had leased the plane to Wichita State while a crew was provided from elsewhere. This clouded the question of who was responsible for the plane's operation. The National Transportation Safety Board found the arrangement was a subterfuge designed to evade federal charter rules.

The proposed "truth in leasing" clause would require a copy of any lease or conditional sale of a large or turbine powered, multi-engine aircraft be filed with the FAA.

And the lease would have to contain, in large type, agreement between the lessor and lessee on who was responsible for the aircraft's operation, along with certification by the lessor that the aircraft complied with applicable FAA maintenance and inspection rules.

The proposal does not put the new rule onto the books. The FAA must allow until Jan. 28, 1972, for the public to comment. Three or more months will be taken to digest the comments and set forth the actual rule, which then allows further lead time for notice before it goes into effect.

Two other sets of proposed rules, one concerning maintenance and the other flight plans, were proposed earlier in October by the FAA. It will be at least spring of 1972 before these become final.

Both were in response to the Department of Transportation charter report, released last March. James F. Rudolph, FAA director of flight service standards, said the agency needed the intervening months to work out details of the proposals.

The flight plan rule would require all large or complex planes to file flight plans, even on visual-flight-rule trips for which no plan now is required.

The Wichita plane had not filed a flight plan. The pilot took the plane into a box canyon in the Rocky Mountains while sightseeing and did not have enough altitude to extricate the craft.

The proposed operation and maintenance rules would require large and complex aircraft to be maintained under standards similar to those governing the airline planes.

The FAA had originally pro-

Bayard Rustin Comfortable

SHARON, Conn. (UPI)—Civil rights leader Bayard Rustin, a special assistant to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. from 1955 to 1966, was reported resting comfortably today in the intensive care unit of Sharon Hospital, recovering from a major heart attack.

A hospital spokesman said Rustin, 61, was in "quite satisfactory" condition after being admitted Sunday. He was expected to remain in the intensive care unit for several more days.

The hospital said no further complications had developed for the executive director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute of New York. Rustin was one of the organizers of the 1963 civil rights march on Washington.

Cuban Hearing Open Now

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The State Department reversed an earlier decision and said today newsmen will be allowed to attend a hearing for 22 Cubans the United States wants returned to Havana.

A State Department spokesman said the Cuban embassy, which is representing the Cubans, requested the deportation hearing for the Cubans be made public. The hearing was scheduled for later (2 p.m.) today.

The Cubans, 19 of them claiming to be sugar technologists eligible to attend a convention in New Orleans, arrived by air a week ago. They did not have visas.

The State Department said it told them two months ago they could not have visas to attend the 14th World Congress of the International Society of Sugar Cane Technologists, being attended by some 700 delegates from 53 sugar-producing countries.

When the Cubans came anyway, they were held in custody in a plush airport hotel. When they refused to leave voluntarily, they were moved to a Naval Air Station 30 miles out of town.

The State Department said current U.S. policy is to exclude Cubans from the United States except for United Nations business or certain other international governmental functions.

The deportation hearing actually began Friday, but was postponed after 10 minutes because the Cubans asked for a member of the Czech embassy to represent them.

Dr. Vladimir Cebis, second secretary for consular and legal affairs for the Czech Embassy in Washington, was called in. He asked the hearing be opened to the press.

The State Department did not indicate how long the hearing might last.

Zanuck Sues A Zanuck

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Richard D. Zanuck, former president of 20th Century Fox Film Corp., filed suit Monday for $22.2 million against Darryl Zanuck, his father—who fired him from the $300,000 a year post.

Zanuck, 37, contended he, his wife, contract actress Linda Harrison, and former Fox executive David W. Brown, were wrongfully fired and subjected to humiliation and embarrassment.

Defendants in addition to the elder Zanuck, 68, one of the last titans of moviedom, were Dennis C. Stanfill, current Fox president, and William T. Gossett, chairman of the Fox Executive Committee.

Young Zanuck was ousted as president Dec. 29, 1970 in a father-son rift that reportedly grew out of jealousy about who was the boss.

The troubles at Fox stemmed from its sad financial condition in the current downturn in motion picture fortunes.

At the time of the firing, the elder Zanuck was chairman of the board of the film corporation he co-founded. He is now chairman emeritus.

A GREAT BUY IS ONLY A GREAT BUY IF YOU CAN BUY IT.

A good deal isn't going to wait for you to get the money. So we've created a checking account that lets you borrow simply by writing a check.

It's called Line of Credit. Our way of lending you up to $5,000 anytime, anyplace.

With a Line of Credit checkbook, you can write yourself a loan whenever you need extra money. So if you come across an opportunity that won't wait, you won't have to wait. Just write a check.

You don't have to worry about filling out a new application every time you use it. And you don't have to worry about getting in over your head, either. We won't let you do that.

Every month we'll send you a statement showing just how much you've borrowed. You can pay it back all at once or just a little at a time. Naturally, you only pay interest on what you borrow.

We think money should be there when you need it. After all, a great buy isn't a great buy if you don't buy it.

Nixon Must Convince Americans on New Foreign Policy Aims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon faces the task of convincing Americans and the world that adoption of what he considers a more realistic U.S. foreign policy does not involve returning to isolationism — diplomatic or economic.

The traumatic experiences the administration underwent at the United Nations and in the U.S. Senate last week show this is going to be a painful process at times.

Officials now are busy assuring major recipients of U.S. military and economic aid, such as Israel, Vietnam and South Korea, that the Senate's rejection of the Foreign Aid Bill eventually will be overcome. Meanwhile, the administration will provide assistance from the approximately $4 billion already in the pipeline, under the authority of a continuing resolution from Congress.

As for administration-inspired threats to cut U.S. contributions to the United Nations, there is not expected to be any reduction in significant items. Administration officials and key congressmen are agreed that the United States must press for a more efficient and economical operation of the United Nations, which will make possible a gradual reduction of the U.S. contribution.

Administration officials also realize that there is resentment abroad at the "hard-nosed" approach Treasury Secretary John B. Connally is taking in an effort to secure more realistic revaluation of foreign currencies against the U.S. dollar. The basis for foreign policy was laid down by the President in July, 1969 when he enunciated at Bonn what has come to be known as the "Nixon Doctrine."

They assert, however, that it is difficult to believe any kid-glove approach to these critical problems would have much effect.

This policy of adopting a "lower profile" and limited responsibility, combined with Nixon's long-planned effort to seek a rapprochement with Communist China, naturally has caused some pain abroad and led at times to misunderstanding. The United States has been charged by some critics with suffering a case of diplomatic schizophrenia on the China issue at the United Nations.

Now that opponents of the United States within the United Nations, Congressional critics and administration officials themselves have enjoyed the forward-looking, if admittedly chatharsis of giving in to their imperfect, manner.

indications are that all concerned are settling down to work out their relationship in a matter in which it was

Astronaut Is U.N. Alternate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — America's first astronaut is the first U.N. delegate who has been on the moon. Alan B. Shepard Jr. is an alternate U.S. representative to the current General Assembly.

Dressed in a modish knit suit with a tiny U.S. flag in the lapel and looking much younger than 47, the astronaut causes heads to turn and runs into an occasional polite request for an autograph as he walks through the U.N. halls and attends meetings.

Ambassador Jamil Baroudy of Saudi Arabia noted one day on the assembly floor that a man who had been on the moon was in the delegates' midst, but did not name Shepard.

"I guess he meant me," Shepard said later. "There were only six of us."

Some of the 131 member countries of the United Nations are strongly anti-American, but Shepard says he hears only complimentary remarks about the U.S. space program.

"People don't realize the positive impact of the space program. I've found it both here and in my travels around the world," he told a reporter.

Shepard has been attending sessions of the assembly's main political committee, which is discussing ways to carry out the declaration passed last year on the "strengthening of international security."

He will be the U.S. delegate in charge of several other assembly agenda items when the come up. They include preparation of a treaty concerning the moon, the peaceful uses of outer space, U.N. peacekeeping operations and the protection of human rights in armed conflicts.

Although he returns to Houston occasionally to his work as chief of the astronaut office, Shepard expects his U.N. assignments to keep him here most of the time until the session ends Dec. 21.

The Navy rear admiral was invited by the White House to join the U. N. delegation. Ambassador George Bush, head of the U. S. delegation, was a backer.

Poff's Avoidance of Publicity

WASHINGTON — There's a poignant human story behind Rep. Richard Poff's withdrawal as a candidate for the Supreme Court.

Not only was his appointment assured, since he was known to be President Nixon's first choice, but a Supreme Court seat would have been the answer to Poff's dreams.

The dream began when he served on the Supreme Court at the Virginia Boys' State. Not long ago, he confided to a friend: "I'd rather be on the Supreme Court than be President of the United States."

Yet he quietly turned down the opportunity and asked the President to withdraw his name before it could be put in nomination.

The main reason, we have learned, was Poff's deep love for an adopted son. The possibility that the sensitive, 12-year-old Tommy might find out that the Poffs weren't his real parents was too painful for them to face.

The thoughtful Virginia Republican has always put his family ahead of his career. He has protected their privacy so zealously that some colleagues call him the "Howard Hughes of politics."

Then suddenly, Poff found himself in the national spotlight, with his background under public scrutiny. Although only a handful of friends knew about the adoption, he feared the intense publicity could cause a leak.

Poff's Problems

The Poffs had consulted psychologists who had advised them to wait until Tommy was 17 or 18 before telling him he was adopted. For an intelligent, sensitive child, they advised, age 12 was the wrong time.

Poff also had other family worries. His wife was awaiting minor surgery, and their 24-year-old daughter, Becky, was about to bear them their first grandchild. She had developed complications that they feared might aggravate by the publicity.

So Poff, typically, abandoned his big dream for the sake of his family. But the publicity already had stirred up his small, snug hometown of Redford, Va. Even after his withdrawal, whispers of the adoption began to spread.

The anxious Poffs took a quiet survey around town and decided there was danger the whispers would get back to Tommy. It would be better, they agreed, for the boy to hear about the adoption directly from them.

So they told little Tommy he was adopted. Outside, the rain drummed on the roof and splashed against the windows. It was a dark, gloomy, depressing day.

They also told Tommy how much they loved him. It didn't ease the shock on his face. All day, he remained in a traumatic silence. Then at supper time, he got hungry and asked for something to eat. "I know you love me," he said.

Washington Whirl

Report From Greece — Vice President Agnew brought back to the White House the word of Greek dictator George Papadopoulos that he will restore "representative democratic government" to Greece. The Vice President was carefully coached before his visit to Greece to push hard for democratic reforms. He spent more than six hours with Papadopoulos, who normally follows such a tight schedule that he confines most visits to a few minutes and keeps an alarm clock beside his desk to remind him when the time is up. Agnew emerged from his sessions with the Greek dictator elated over his success. Back at the White House, Agnew gave President Nixon a 90-minute report on his trip. The highlight was Agnew's stated belief that free elections will be revived in Greece.

Big Clyde — White House aides, with staunch conservative leanings, are positively seething over the idea that John Connally might replace Spiro Agnew as Vice President. They forecast an uproar from the right if Agnew should be dropped from the ticket. Connally, a protégé of ex-President Lyndon Johnson, is particularly repugnant to them. Among conservatives on the White House staff, Johnson is known as "Big Clyde." Connally as "Little Clyde."

Aid to Chiang — The U.S. has been trying quietly to cut back military aid to Chiang Kai-shek. U.S. officials have suggested in their secret discussions that old Chiang has enough cash stashed away to pay more of his own military bills. He's holding the money to finance his dream of reconquering the Chinese mainland. We have examined some of the Pentagon's secret working papers, which contain this fascinating statement: "We do know privately that the GRC (Chiang's government) has considerable sums of money in special funds, mostly marked for contingency use in mainland recovery. The possibility that these funds would be used for routine military expenditures is remote, and they would be disbursed only as a last resort."

Ladies' Man? — Despite his high voice and balding pate, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., is emerging as the female favorite in the 1972 presidential race. Reason: he's gaining a reputation for being totally without bias against women. At a recent strategy session, for example, McGovern was working out the details of a speech on women's rights. "Why not say, 'my first appointment to the Supreme Court will be a woman?'" someone suggested. Someone else objected that the first appointment might have to be a Chief Justice. "Why shouldn't the Chief Justice be a woman?" was McGovern's instant response.

Student Job-Hunting

For the third successive year, jobs for college graduates are a scarce commodity, as they are for their peers as a whole in their own age group. Job hunting has become a fact of life for both.

College counselors are the one advantage college graduates have over their counterparts who are drop-outs, or at most high school graduates, and most of whom have to fend for themselves. A recent meeting of counselors and economic specialists of the Metropolitan New York College Placement Officers' Association found that college graduates have perforce, adopted a realistic but not pessimistic attitude toward the situation. They are taking what they can get instead of holding out for the pie-in-the sky dream jobs their predecessors sought.

The one outstanding difficulty is that, in the case of trained people, the first job too often determines the career for new entrants into the labor market. Counselors warn against this. Get what work you can, they advise, but don't stop there. Be on the lookout for the kind of work you were educated and trained for.

On the other hand, employers are not going to invest money and time in a man who will not stay to make the investment pay off. It is up to both to make the opportunity good enough to stay with the first job. Education, training and experience can be combined to make most careers attractive. That is something college students, and others looking for their first job, should know and use to their advantage.

An All-Black Ticket

The theoretical question tossed at Maine Sen. Edmund S. Muskie—about the prospects of a black running for vice president—is taking on an unusual and unexpected twist: There's a movement among black leaders to form a third party, and to put up a black candidate for President as well as one for vice president. If such a possibility—or probability, as some regard it—becomes a fact, the repercussions will be varied, and the chief tokens will be the Democratic Party. It can be assumed that such a ticket could not win the presidency, and the upshot would be a loss for the blacks of more than the election; they would lose the bargaining power they now possess and are now exerting on the Democratic Party in a power play through which blacks would be named to top government posts in return for convention support to white presidential aspirants.

In past elections, the black vote has largely gone into the Democratic column. That's where such blacks as Georgia Rep. Julian Bond would like it to go in 1972, but he's afraid the prospect of an all-black ticket could siphon the vote in the direction of the third party effort, and kill whatever chance there is of winning greater representation for his race in key government jobs.

In spite of the Washington thinking that a third party is quite likely, it is hard to visualize it as a reality. It may carry some glamor as an historic and independent endeavor, but if it's results the blacks want, they'll get more of them by retaining their bargaining stance as an election factor, than they will by going it alone and coming out with only some election vote totals. Further, an all-black ticket could only be a help to President Nixon by diverting votes he wouldn't get anyway to the black ticket and away from the Democratic standard-bearer.

The practicalities of politics will more likely prevail by election time and wiser heads will probably decide that a black ticket seeking White House occupancy is an objective whose time has not yet come.

Man the U.S. Wanted

WASHINGTON (NEA) — This is the story of a man we shall call Nguyen Thuy Nam, so devoted to his country that he closed his business for months to work full time without pay for the re-election of President Thieu.

And ended up wishing he had not.

Nam believes a civilian president would be best for Vietnam. But at this stage, with political parties having no strength, he believes the election of a civilian was impossible. This left only military men. Big Min (Gen. Duong Van Minh), he believed, did not have the ability required and if elected, would be run by the men around him. Vice President Ky, he considered to emotional and unpredictable.

But Nam wanted an election badly. If there is to be a civilian as president the next time around, the stage must be set in this election. Only by a contest would the tradition be established and the basis of party organization be set. When Thieu ran alone, Nam felt sold out. Nam had been encouraged when Thieu announced that an administration party would be organized. This would give the government a wider base and set the stage for eventual party government. But after a few meetings and a series of publicity releases, nothing developed.

Now Nam says Thieu, like Nguyen Diem before him, has become more and more withdrawn. He does not meet with the leaders of the Senate and the House or other representative leaders for regular consultation. He will, in fact, rarely consult with anyone outside his own close circle.

Nam had great respect and affection for the United States. But he blames this country for the one-man election. He believes Washington has done almost nothing these past seven years to aid the development of political parties without which democracy cannot develop.

Nam asks why the United States has not been willing to help in this matter. Organizing political parties is a problem as technically difficult to master as is developing efficient government management, constructing an army, navy and air force or building an agricultural base. The United States has been willing to spend billions and send in thousands of technical advisors to improve these bureaucratic, military and economic functions. But Washington has not been willing to put the same technical and financial investment into helping Vietnamese organize political parties.

U.S. advisors have said this is an internal problem, Nam says that in helping the administration in power to the exclusion of all else, the United States confirms that government in power and makes a democratic contest for the presidency impossible.

Nam asks: How can a people without democratic political experience and training and without funds go about forming political parties without outside technical help and advice? Americans seem to think this comes about by some emotional inspiration, that all you have to do is set out ballot boxes and candidates will appear and parties form. You do not expect this innate ability in the military, or government or in economics. How then for political parties?

Then said Nam, you made it so clear in the attitude of your officials that you wanted Thieu, no one else would run. We all know that for some time to come, Vietnam must depend heavily on U.S. aid. Who would oppose the man you wanted?

The Politician Ploy in Use

By ROBERT H. YOAKUM

The voice of the politician is again heard in our land — and it will continue to be heard until election day early in November 1972.

It's a bleak prospect, admittedly, but less so if you learn to spot political ploys in the way bird watchers spot birds. Collecting political ploys, and exchanging them with friends, can add zest to a campaign that would otherwise stretch out ahead like a vast wasteland.

A politician's worst moments during a campaign are when he has to answer questions for the record, as he does at a session with the League of Women Voters or at a press conference. Here are a few of the ploys to watch for at such times:

THE OBFUSCATION PLOY. Every politician, at one time or another, has tried to handle a hot potato by tossing it from one hand to another, as follows:

Q. "Congressman Filch, are you in favor of busing school children to speed up desegregation?"

A. "That's an excellent question — both topical and controversial. I wish more people would ask questions like that."

Unfortunately, there isn't much time here to spell out in detail my reply to such an emotion-laden and complex subject. Elsewhere I have set forth my views at length on this troublesome issue. There is time now, therefore, for only a brief summary.

"Here is what I feel. Busing does not get to the heart of the problem. Discrimination and segregation exists in men's minds. That's where it must be purged. Buses cannot do that job."

"This does not mean that I am unalterably opposed to all busing aimed at increasing freedom of opportunity. Let's not forget that millions of students are bused to and from school every day. Busing, in that sense, is the American way, just as refusal to bus, under other circumstances, is the American way."

"That pretty well sums up my views. I think. Next question."

THE IT TAKES A LOT OF COURAGE TO DO THIS BUT I'M GOING TO DO IT ANYWAY PLOY. This is sometimes known to campaign watchers as the "Nixon Ploy," not because he invented it but because he has used it more than all the other American presidents put together. It involves saying that one is taking a huge political risk when, in fact, one is taking no risk at all.

Q. "Mr. President, a splinter group from the Leon Trotsky Post of the American Federation of Liberated Women has urged the abolition of the Boy Scouts. Do you have a comment on that?"

A. "I certainly do. I like to think of myself as a President first and a politician second. And regardless of the political consequences, I want to make this perfectly clear: As long as I'm President, the Boy Scouts are safe."

"Yes, I know there are some people who will say, 'Oh, why not go along and get rid of scouting? What have you got to lose?'"

"I'll tell you what we've got to lose: The very things that made America great. Some people will disagree, and they have been trying quietly to cut discussion that told Chiang his bills. He's holding the money 'we do know privately that they have a right to disagree, but I for one want an America that is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent."

"My wife Pat was a den mother, you know, and I was talking to her about scouting at breakfast just the other day. And she agreed that even if we had to move from this nice white house — heh, heh — I should stand up, and be counted when the Boy Scouts are attacked."

THE "I'LL GET THEM OFF MY TRAIL BY SAYING AFTER SOMEBODY ELSE" PLOY. Every crooked politician lives in terror of being exposed. The usual response to exposure is to become indignant about an entirely different issue. If often works.

Q. "Senator, your opponent charged today that 95 percent of your campaign contributions in the last election came from the oil industry, and that you voted with the oil industry 95 percent of the time. Do you deny the charge?"

A. "Well, I hadn't heard about this latest smear attempt by my opponent, who is obviously beginning to panic. I'm glad he said it, though, because it permits me to say a few words about the survival of this great nation of ours."

"I don't hesitate to predict that the American way of life is doomed unless some limits are placed on political debate to halt scurrilous charges of this sort."

"Are we to stand around and see our fair country desecrated and its glorious flag shredded, by unscrupulous men who will stoop to anything to win public office? Is there no limit to permissiveness? These days people seem to be able to do or say anything and get away with it."

"So I agree with Vice President Agnew when he says that we've got to get rid of the rotten apples in the barrel — and I hope that the press will join me in this effort for common decency and Americanism. Next question."

The "I DON'T KNOW FROM NOTHING ABOUT IT, BUT I CAN'T LET THE VOTERS KNOW THAT" PLOY:

Q. "Speaking of our city's educational needs, Mayor Dooley, how do you stand in the controversy over the employment in this country of British primary school teaching techniques?"

A. Well, uh, to explore into all the ramifications of that quest is impossible under these abbreviated conditions. If you take one part of the thing, why then you're going to find out that some people are going to object. Right? That's the way human beings are made — and how can you get around human beings when you're dealing with a thing like education, wherever it's from? Next question."

Memoriam

In memory of Ray Adams, who passed away one year ago today, November 2.

Today recalls sad memories Of a dear friend gone to rest, And the ones who think of you today.

Are the ones who loved you best, JENNY and RALPH

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Ray Adams, who passed away just one long year ago today, November 2.

I have lost my soul's companion. A life linked with my own. And day by day I miss him. As I walk through life alone. A happy home we once enjoyed. How sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness. The world can never fill. I think of him in silence. And often repeat his name. But all that is left to answer Is a picture in a frame. Oh dear God, please take this message to my dear Ray. Tell him how much I miss him. And give him all my love. His Loving Wife, LILLIAN ADAMS

Kingston Man Hurt in Crash

KINGSTON

A New Paltz school teacher was injured shortly after 8 a. m. today when the car he was riding reportedly went out of control on rain-slick pavement of the State Thruway and hit a bridge abutment about five miles south of this city.

Ronald Valle, 22, of 100 Yarmouth Street, Kingston, was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance. He sustained injuries of the legs and multiple lacerations and contusions, it was reported. Valle was southbound on the superhighway at the time of the mishap. He was identified as a teacher at New Paltz High School.

Another one-car accident occurred shortly before 8:30 a. m. today on the Thruway approximately seven miles south of Kingston. The car driven Rene Rofe, 21, of Brooklyn, went out of control on wet pavement and rolled over. Rofe was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. He reportedly sustained a broken arm and possible neck injuries.

Thruway State Police investigated.

Old Temple Found
MOSCOW (UPI) — Archeologists have uncovered one of the oldest Buddhist temples in the Soviet Union, the Tass News Agency said today.

Archeologists said the temple, found in a hill near Termez, Uzbekistan, dates to the First Century before Christ.

Under a layer of brick covering the stupa (tower), specialists found pictures of lotus flowers and circles — symbolic images of Buddha — on a smooth plastered surface.

Card of Thanks

Deeming it impossible to thank all in person, we wish to take this means to thank our many relatives and friends for their beautiful floral offerings, many cards and kind words of sympathy during the recent bereavement.

FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE — The Anglican Dean of Johannesburg, Gonville A. French Beytagh enters court in Pretoria, South Africa, for the climax of his three-month trial on terrorist charges. Judge Petrus M. Malan found the Dean guilty of terrorism and sentenced the 59-year-old cleric to five years imprisonment. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Guilty Plea On Auto Charge

KINGSTON Frederick L. Riley Jr., charged with driving while intoxicated, a felony, on July 25 of this year, entered a plea of guilty in County Court Monday before presiding Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The judge ordered a presentence report and set the date of Nov. 24 at 2 p.m. for a presentence conference. District Attorney Francis J. Vogt and Assistant District Attorney Joseph Traficanti represented the People.

Three Persons Hurt in Crash

NEW PALTZ Three persons were injured at 4:30 p.m. Monday when the cars in which they were riding were involved in a collision on South Putt Corners Road, in this township.

Town Patrolman William Luedeke reported the cars were driven by Joseph Becker, 48, of B-561 Highland Avenue Extension, Maybrook, and Robert F. Kiedasch Jr., 20, of 6132 79th Street, Middle Village. Patrolman Luedeke cited Becker for driving to the left of the road on the crest of a grade.

Police said Becker was southbound when he reportedly pulled to the left to overtake another vehicle when his 1971 sedan was in collision with the northbound automobile operated by Kiedasch.

Injured were Kiedasch, who sustained head injuries, and two passengers, Rose M. Ressa, 19, Ambulance Service.

Venezuelan Women Visit Vassar

Seventeen women from Venezuela are visiting Vassar College this week. They arrived on Sunday, Oct. 31. Among the visitors are congresswomen, lawyers, municipal officials, and student and civic leaders.

The visit is being sponsored by the American Association of Venezuelans, an organization of Americans living in that country. Simultaneous interpreters will be provided by the U.S. State Department.

The visit came from a suggestion made to Vassar president Alan Simpson by Mrs. William Redmond, a Vassar alumna who lives in Caracas and is a member of the American Association there. The group is said to be particularly interested in Vassar's transition to coeducation.

From Poughkeepsie, the visitors will travel to Boston where they will spend some time at the Radcliffe Institute, which is particularly concerned with the problems of women in professional life. The coordinator for that part of the trip is also a Vassar alumna, Miss Carol Chandler.

Various Vassar faculty members will address the Venezuelans on "Higher Education in the United States," "American Foreign Policy since World War II," "Problems of the American City: Poughkeepsie as a Case Study," and "Problems of Minorities in the United States."

The visitors' hosts at Vassar will be members of the Department of Hispanic Studies. Spanish-speaking students will have the Venezuelans join them for dinner in the student residence hall. The agenda also includes a trip to Hyde Park for tours of the Roosevelt and Vanderbilt estates.

The group will depart for Boston at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Kerhonkson Lions Club Supports Ellenville Hospital

Kerhonkson Lions Club members reaffirmed their interest in and support of Ellenville Community Hospital with a recent commitment of $300 to the hospital dinner fund. Club officials urged all members of the community to increase their support of the hospital.

"The hospital benefits us all," club officials stated. "We believe it's important for all service and civic organizations to lead the way in the support of such a worthy cause. Hospitals are never really complete as long as medical technology provides new diagnostic and therapeutic equipment for patient care. If we want these medical advances translated into service for our community, we all have a responsibility for securing them."

The Kerhonkson Lions Club has assumed an active responsibility role in support of the hospital since 1962 under the presidency of David Karp when the club made its three year pledge to the new hospital building fund. During the presidencies of Hamilton C. Sherman and Daniel Slobodian, the club fulfilled its original commitment, and exceeded its pledge during the administrations of Carlton Schoonmaker and Sidney Chernick.

Last year the group initiated support of the hospital through the annual dinner fund campaign, a policy it is continuing and expanding this year.

Hospital officials expressed appreciation for the continued support of the community service club. "It is a policy we trust other community organizations will notice and follow. There are many noble causes and projects which community groups work for, but none which so directly benefit the entire community. We hope, they state, "that we will see increased community support at this year's dinner."

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE BURGHER of West Shokan were honored recently at a surprise party at Olivebridge Church hall in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. Married October 22, 1921 at Shokan by the Rev. Thomas S. Braitwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Burgher are the parents of two daughters Mrs. Thomas Hyman of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Mrs. Norma Barringer of West Shokan. They also have 10 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Mrs. Burgher is the former Matilda Nichols. Among the many friends and relatives who attended the gala were the couple's attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Silkworth of Olivebridge. Another surprise party was given at Olive Shokan Baptist Church where they renewed their nuptial vows.

Area Groups List Activities

Memorial Mass

Mrs. Thomas Spellman, president, St. Francis Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Poughkeepsie, has announced that Mrs. Dominic Lynch will serve as chairman of the annual Memorial Mass for deceased members of the Auxiliary, to be held on Saturday, Nov. 6, at 9 a.m. in Our Lady of Angels Chapel, St. Francis Hospital. The Mass will be followed by a breakfast in the hospital dining room.

The Rev. Frederick P. Rothlauf, S.J., administrator of the Union Street Community Center in Poughkeepsie, will be the celebrant of the Mass and main speaker at the breakfast. Father Rothlauf will speak on the activities of the Union Street Center and its involvement and participation in the community.

Assisting Mrs. Lynch are Mrs. Joseph Cassidy, co-chairman, Mrs. C. LeRoy Hendrickson, Mrs. Maurice Sipple, Miss Frances Walsh and Mrs. Benjamin S. Hayden III. Edward and Mark Bastian will serve as altar boys for Father Rothlauf.

Cafeteria Supper

On Sunday, Nov. 7 at 4:30 p.m., a tradition will be revived. Sisterhood of Congregation Agudas Achim will hold its once famous cafeteria supper in the social hall of the synagogue at 254 Lucas Avenue, Kingston.

The menu will consist of numerous dairy delicacies among which will be potato soup, halibut salad and blintzes. All food will have been prepared on the premises and will be available for purchase individually at a nominal cost.

Those assisting co-chairman, Mrs. George Margolis and Mrs. Joseph Epstein, in the preparations are Mrs. Morris Berman, Mrs. Stella Suskind, Mrs. Betty Wolpe, Mrs. Florence Friedman, Mrs. Bessie Ellenbogen, Mrs. Lorraine Schneider, Mrs. Lorraine Trast, Mrs. Thelma Weinberger, Mrs. Elaine Weinberger, Mrs. Estelle King and Mrs. Evelyn Weinger.

Guests will be served until 7 p.m. The public is welcome.

'Martha in Paris'

Performing Arts of Woodstock will sponsor its first public reading of a new play, "Martha in Paris" by James Pridoux, adapted from two novels by Margery Sharp and from a screen play by Pridoux and Miss Katharine Hepburn. The reading is slated for Wednesday, Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. upstairs at Deanie's Restaurant in Woodstock.

Set in Paris in the Summer of 1930, the play details the adventures of Martha, a brilliant young English painter, as she faces the perils of the parks and ateliers of Paris. Sex rears its head in the person of Eric Taylor, a not so brilliant young clerk in the Paris branch of a large English bank.

The play deals basically with the havoc Martha wreaks on her way to artistic fulfillment. Julia Callahan will read Martha, Joe Chalmers, Mrs. Taylor, and Chet London as Henri. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

Dístaff Digest

Bazaar, Supper

The Ladies Auxiliary of Ulster Hose Company No. 5 will sponsor a Christmas Bazaar in conjunction with a spaghetti supper to be held at the firehouse on Ulster Avenue, Mall on Saturday beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Featured at the bazaar will be handmade articles and fancy work for Christmas made by members of the Auxiliary. The supper will consist of spaghetti, meatballs, salad, Italian bread, beverage, and a choice of homemade desserts.

The public is invited. Anyone who wishes to attend should contact Mrs. Raymond Jackson, Morton Boulevard, Kingston, for reservations.

Rummage Sale

Ulster County Women's Democratic Club will hold its annual rummage sale at Democratic Headquarters, 456 Broadway, on Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Members of the Club who have items to donate are requested to bring their donations to the Headquarters on Wednesday between 7 and 9 p.m.

Woodstock LWV

Mrs. W. Jack Kahn, program chairman of the Woodstock League of Women Voters, has announced that the regular November meeting of the League will be divided into two sessions, an afternoon and an evening meeting, on Wednesday, Nov. 3. The purpose of the two meetings is for the convenience of the members and friends of the League that they may attend and participate in its activities.

The Wednesday afternoon meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. Thomas Horsey, 4 Millstream Road, Woodstock, at 1 p.m. Mrs. Daniel Gikner will hostess the evening meeting at 8 o'clock at her home, 19 Cardinal Drive in Woodstock.

There will be several important committee reports along with the Consensus report on the "Absentee Voter." Mrs. Anthony Quaranda will give the afternoon meeting report and Mrs. W. John Shallenberger will report at the evening session.

Members are asked to contact their hostesses indicating which of the meetings they plan to attend.

Conducts Workshop Session In Music at Concord Hotel

The New York State Association of Teachers of the Mentally Handicapped held its annual convention on October 28-31 at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake. A workshop session entitled "A New Approach to Classroom Learning Through Music" was conducted by Robert J. Moore of Kingston. The workshop concerned itself with the educational philosophy of Germany's famous composer, Carl Orff. This method of music education is unique in that music is taught through the use of speech, rhythm, movement, and special instruments. Through this approach the child is developed with the use of his senses, physical coordination, creativity, and the ability to concentrate and memorize.

Moore is a graduate of Ithaca College and has done extensive graduate work in the Orff Philosophy. He has studied with: Doreen Hall, the most eminent North American Orff authority; Wilma Salzmann, a graduate of the Orff Institute, Salzburg, Austria; and Grace Nash, leading figure in the American adaptation of the Orff method.

Moore is employed by Kingston City Schools Consolidated and teaches at the Edson Elementary School. He has given numerous concerts and lecture-demonstrations with the children from the Edson School and has taught a locally sponsored teachers in-service training course in the Orff method. He is the first leader of the Berkshire-Hudson Valley Orff Schulwerk Association and is presently completing compositions which will be ready for publication in the near future.

Civic Groups Back Ecology

By JON POWERS

STONE RIDGE
The first signs of cooperation between the many civic and environmental groups expressing ecological concern in the Town of Marbletown are beginning to surface.

At a recent meeting of the Marbletown Environmental Conservation Committee, more than 50 representatives of numerous civic and church groups discussed recycling plans for the future.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Marjorie Dunbar, head of Marbletown's Conservation Committee. The meeting was initially requested by Rosalind Sedacca, leader of a volunteer recycling group, who has consistently called for greater cooperation between the town's many factions involved in conservation issues.

Some promise of future cooperation was indicated at the gathering. Representatives of each group in attendance said they would consult with their respective organizations in an attempt to eventually form a concerted and community-wide recycling effort.

The meeting also nurtured hopes of the Environmental Task Force to organize a cooperative county-wide recycling venture. Mrs. Shirley Kobran, chairman of the Kingston-based Task Force, was on hand at the meeting, and described her group's past experiences and outlined some of the factors for a successful recycling campaign. But, more importantly, she pledged the assistance and support of her group in Marbletown's efforts.

Most of the discussion at the meeting, however, centered around recycling plans for the approaching winter months. Mrs. Sedacca reported that it was "imperative" to continue recycling efforts throughout the year and, as a result, her group will continue to collect "small amounts" of newspaper to donate to the Salvation Army, which sends the materials out for recycling.

The need for some type of storage space for recyclable materials was also emphasized. The group now plans to establish storage sheds in High Falls, Kripplbush and Stone Ridge, as well as at the landfill site on Berne Road. Representatives of several fire companies in attendance indicated that there may be room at their facilities to store the materials during the winter.

A plan proposed by Mrs. Dunbar to raise money for the erection of a shed at the landfill by selling bonds was also considered, and may be implemented in the future.

Three members of the Town Board attended the meeting: Supervisor Kenneth Smith, Ronald Roosa and Edmund Ruffner, and they indicated support of the group's plans. "Our biggest problem now is transportation," Mrs. Sedacca later explained. "We don't have any trucks so we're trying to arrange something with the (Town) Highway Department with the help of the Town Board." She added, "We think the income from recycling materials will be worth the expense of using the service of Town employees for one day."

Among other groups represented at the meeting included the Town of Marbletown's Beautification Committee, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Lomontville Fire Company, Methodist Youth Fellowship, Biology Club of Ulster County Community College, Boy Scouts, Kerhonkson Lions Club, High Falls Civic Association and the Science Department at Rondout Valley Central School.

Another meeting is planned for the future, primarily to keep interest high, but also to give group representatives the opportunity to report back on the progress they have made. In the meantime, ecology-minded citizens will be "spreading the word" to interested organizations.

Revised Zoning the Topic in Red Hook Once Again

By TIM SCHUSTER
RED HOOK
The subject of revised zoning is being brought to the floor once again in the Village of Red Hook after lying somewhat dormant for the past year. A meeting of the Planning Board with Dutchess County Deputy Commissioner of Planning Kenneth Toole and several members of the Village Board will be held Thursday night with a possible public hearing date to be set at that meeting. The Village Planning Board has been revising the zoning law for more than three years and is the only municipality of an original three villages and four towns in northwestern Dutchess County which has not proceeded as far as a public hearing as yet. It was noted at Monday evening's Village Board meeting by Trustee Fred Cotting that the village has collected its first interest ever on a savings investment. Some $20,000 placed in a three-months savings note has yielded $250 to the village, and Mayor Robert Bowman said that the practice of placing village monies in three and six month savings will continue to provide added revenue. Police commissioner Douglas Magley noted that the Halloween weekend proceeded relatively smoothly. He said that new radar systems were being investigated for village police. And Magley commented that patrolman Robert Moul, attending police classes in Kingston, is progressing well. James Melley, trustee in charge of streetwork, said that 25 loads of debris were picked up at the October Cleanup Day. Trustee John Gilfeather reported that the master water meter has been installed, and work on a new well house is nearly completed.

He suggested that a new method for billing mobile home parks be investigated, as he felt mobile homes were being unfairly aided by low rates. Melley agreed. And Gilfeather, reporting on the progress of Kingston Cablevision, said that construction of the towers and headend in Rhinebeck had begun and is expected to be completed within two weeks. Service to the Village of Rhinebeck is anticipated within 30 days and to Red Hook somewhat later. Mayor Bowman commented that the initial October meeting of joint representatives of Villages of Tivoli and Red Hook, Town of Red Hook, Red Hook Central School District, and county representatives had been successful, and designated committees on several joint problems are being set up for future action.

He also stated that the annual Red Hook Little League awards dinner, scheduled for Friday evening at St. Christopher's on Benner Road, would draw upwards of 400 boys and asked for police direction. And it was noted that the Town of Red Hook public budget hearing will be held at the village offices Wednesday night due to a meeting conflict at the Town Hall.

CANCER AWARD — Dr. Roberto E. Benitez, (R) vice president of the Ulster County Unit, American Cancer Society, presents an award on behalf of the Board of Directors, to Paul A. Pavlovich, general chairman of the 1971 Ulster County Cancer Crusade for outstanding service to the cause of cancer control during the Society's annual crusade. The award culminates the achievement of raising the highest amount ever in the history of the Ulster County Unit with a total of $66,165, representing an increase of 15 per cent over the previous year's figure. Pavlovich expressed heartfelt thanks to the numerous volunteers throughout the county who made this victory possible. "I feel that each and everyone who rang door bells and or gave of their time, effort and dollars recognizes that we all have a personal stake in the battle against this dread disease", he said. "I am proud to have had a part in this most worthy cause", concluded Pavlovich. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Grand Jury Continues 'Muscling-In' Probe

KINGSTON the grand jury still exploring the threat of the alleged muscling-in of two New York City Mafia-type men who wanted part of the gambling "take" in Ellenville, is continuing in Ulster County with investigation into the alleged Ellenville matter one way or the other. The grand jury began its investigation last month hearing testimony from witnesses when it was reported that a taxi owner in Ellenville involved in the numbers games and an owner of an Ellenville social club have been put out of the gambling business because they reportedly refused to part with 50 per cent of the "take" demanded by two strong-arm men from New York City. The two Ellenville men, who police agencies have known as couldn't operate. Officials sources indicate that he two Ellenville men were not the only ones in Ulster County to get similar threats and the grand jury action followed a complaint lodged by an attorney or one of the men threatened.

The Lions Stayed Within Range

SHORT GAINER — Green Bay Packers' back John Brockington gains six yards before being stopped by Detroit Lions' end Larry Hand (74) and linebacker Wayne Walker (55) in the first quarter of Monday's Packers-Lions game. On the ground is Packers guard Bill Lueck, and No. 47 is Lions safety Wayne Rasmusson. The Packers and Lions played to a 14-14 tie. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Detroit Lions, haunted for eight days by the emotional nightmare of teammate Chuck Hughes' death, emerged Monday night in professional football's emotional twilight zone — with a 14-14 tie with the Green Bay Packers.

It was the Lions' first start since Hughes, a reserve wide receiver, suffered a fatal heart attack in a game at Detroit Oct. 24.

If they needed any more incentive, it was the need to stay within range of Minnesota in the National Conference's Central Division.

But hopes of victory died at the hands of four crucial mistakes, and the gusty winds that swirled sheets of rain at Milwaukee County Stadium and took away the Lions' passing game.

It took a 49-yard touchdown pass from Greg Landry to Charlie Sanders with 17 seconds left in the first half for Detroit to salvage the tie with the Packers. The second half was scoreless.

The Lions fell to third place with a 4-2-1 record, trailing Minnesota at 6-1. Green Bay, which had lost three straight, is 2-4-1.

"I think we were trying very hard to do well because Chuck's wife, Sharon, had set such a strong example," Landry said.

"All you have to do is see the black arm bands we were wearing and you know Chuck is missing," Landry said. "He was always around, patting people on the back and cheering people up."

But while the armbands and an ambulance on the sidelines containing a cardiac treatment mobile unit were constant reminders of Hughes' death, Lions' Coach Joe Schmidt played down its effect on the outcome.

"We weren't in a state of shock or anything like that," said a bitterly disappointed Schmidt. "All it was was the fumbles and a bad snap from center on the field goal."

Fumbles ruined two scoring opportunities for Detroit.

A Steve Owens' bobbie was recovered by Green Bay safety Al Randolph at the Packer 21 in the second quarter. Linebacker Fred Carr tore the ball from the grasp of Albie Taylor at the Packer 17 in the third period.

Then Errol Mann's 32-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Carr in the fourth quarter after a bad snap from center Ed Flanagan.

The Lions took a 7-0 lead after only 2:01 had elapsed in the nationally televised game when Packers' rookie quarterback Scott Hunter raised his arm to class and was hit by Larry Hand.

Bob Bell recovered the fumble and raced 25 yards for the touchdown.

The Packers tied it seven plays later on Dave Hampton's two-yard run, set up by a 41-yard run by John Brockington.

A one-yard sneak by Hunter gave Green Bay a 14-7 lead late in the second quarter after Owens' fumble was recovered by Dave Robinson.

Landry pulled the Lions into a 14-14 tie when he connected with Sandets in the waning seconds of the half.

Rain and mud led to six fumbles, five by Detroit. Both Mann and Green Bay's Lou Michaels missed two field goals apiece.

Schmidt pointed to Mann's second miss—the one Carr blocked—as "the one that iced the ball game."

Mann also missed from 39 yards away in the first quarter. Michaels tried from 44 yards out in the fourth quarter but kicked the ball into the teeth of the driving rain. It fell far short.

His 39-yard attempt in the third quarter was wide after two incomplete passes had stalled a Packer march.

The Lions took over on their 14 with 3:02 left to play, but stayed largely to the ground instead of trying to pass into scoring position. Landry's pass from midfield was intercepted by Ray Nitschke as time ran out.

Hockey War In Offing?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The hockey war is on. Or is it?

The World Hockey Association formally announced its formation Monday with 10 teams and Ben Hatskin, the owner of the Winnipeg club, summed up the new league's optimism with the battlecry, "let the NHL try and fight us."

An NHL spokesman said, "hockey is a booming, expanding sport and we welcome them into it."

But it's logical to assume the two leagues are eventually going to get into the kind of AFL-NFL and ABA-NBA rivalries in the last decade.

The league, the brainchild of two Californians (president Gary I. Davidson and executive vice president Dennis A. Murphy) who helped found the ABA, will begin play in the 1972-73 season and hopes to add two more clubs before then. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, the chairman of the board of the Los Angeles team, is the best known public figure in the new league.

The 10 charter members are New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami, Ohio (Dayton), St. Paul and three Canadian teams — Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton.

League officials refuse to use the word "raid" but they said they're willing to sign NHL players who contact the new league. But the officials said they wouldn't sign players with multi-year contracts.

"National Hockey League players have the lowest salaries in pro sports," claimed New York owner Neil Shayne. And the presence of a new league is sure to change that.

The WHA officials claimed their pension will be the "best in hockey" and said they also plan to have a novel contract with no reserve or option clause.

However, a player will not simply be free to move around at will. If a player doesn't like his salary offer, he can take his case to an arbitration board. If he still doesn't like what the board decides is adequate, he can sign with another club. The new club, though, must compensate the team that lost the player and the executive committee will decide what compensation is adequate.

The new league has several strikes against it but then things looked bleak at the start for the AFL and ABA. In Hockey, the American colleges aren't producing big-name stars the way they do in football and basketball. And the league can't expect to sign TV contracts since hockey doesn't draw well on TV and even the NHL has

Doctor Questions Artificial Turf

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. James G. Garrick, assistant professor of orthopedic surgery and head of the division of sports medicine at the University of Washington, said Monday that there was "a serious area of question" about the safety of artificial turf.

Testifying before the House Subcommittee on Commerce and Finance, Dr. Garrick said that high school football players in Seattle suffered 50 per cent more injuries on synthetic turf than grass fields. The doctor substantiated his statements with pictures that showed skin blisters and second degree burns on the arms, legs and hips of college football players who had played on the artificial turf.

Dr. Garrick said that a full-scale study of the surfaces is warranted but that it would cost as much as $200,000. "If these products (artificial surfaces) are shown to result in increased risk of injury, their appropriate product modifications must be forthcoming," said Dr. Garrick.

Garrick has been retained by the National Football League Players Association (NFLPA) to conduct a survey as to the safety of the eleven synthetic fields now in use in the National Football League.

Edward R. Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, indicated that the players were contributing what they could to Garrick's study without the help of the team owners. Dan Devine, head coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers has voiced his approval of the study. Garvey said he has told the owners of the other 25 teams in the NFL that the NFLPA has the legal duty to bargain for any change in working conditions.

"It is our view," said Garvey, "that they (the owners) must negotiate with us before they can place artificial turf on another field."

Van Breda Kolff Wanted No Ulcer

Pistons' Coach Calls It Quits

DETROIT (AP) — "I've been in basketball for 21 years and never had an ulcer," Bill Van Breda Kolff said Monday, "but I got a feeling I might get one the way things were going."

The coach of the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association had just stunned nearly everyone by resigning his $45,000-a-year position. Only two months ago he signed a two-year contract.

He cited the pressures of his job as the prime reason for his surprising decision and also said he questioned the enthusiasm of the players he hoped to weld into a Midwest Division contender to Milwaukee.

"I have reservations as to whether any team has that enthusiasm now," he said, when asked whether the Pistons had old-fashioned team spirit. "I don't want to sound any sour grapes, but I have to be a realist."

He announced his resignation Monday morning just hours after Doug Barkley, coach of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, said Sunday night he was resigning his position.

"I notice the pressure got to another gentleman in this city in the past 24 hours," the 47-year-old former Los Angeles Lakers coach said.

Ed Coil, general manager of the Pistons, said Van Breda Kolff told him Thursday night he was going to quit.

"I tried to talk him out of it and after we won two games over the weekend, I figured ev-everything would be okay," Coil said, "but then he came into my office today and said the resignation stood."

Detroit's record so far this year is 6-4. Last year, in his second at the Pistons' helm, Van Breda Kolff coached them to their best record in history, 45-37.

Coil said forward Terry Dis-chinger will handle the club on an interim basis until guard Dave Bing is recovered enough for the job. Bing recently had serious eye surgery and was not expected to play for at least two months.

A college coach is being sought to replace Van Breda Kolff, Coil said. But he wouldn't say who.

Nebraska Holds Lead

(By Combined Services)
The Nation's top seven teams refused to be moved in the United Press International and Associated Press college football polls.

But top-rated Nebraska opened up some breathing room on Oklahoma with its 31-7 win over Colorado.

Michigan, Alabama, Auburn, Georgia, and Penn State, all undefeated, were the other teams in the top seven. AP and Penn State sixth, while UPI had the Nittany Lions seventh with the reverse holding for Georgia.

Finnie Under Knife

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Finnie, a defensive left tackle for the New York Jets, underwent surgery Monday to repair ligaments in his left knee that were torn during Sunday's loss to the San Diego Chargers.

Notre Dame moved back into the top ten as ninth on the UPI listing and eighth on AP. The Irish beat Navy Saturday, 21-0.

Toronto Wins, 2-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ron Ellis earned applause with a three-goal performance, but you might also give a hand to Norm Ullman ... because he gave a hand to Ellis.

Ellis delivered a goal in every period, each time assisted by Ullman, to power the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 6-1 National Hockey League triumph over the Detroit Red Wings Monday night.

The game marked the debut of Johnny Wilson as the Red Wings' coach. He replaced Doug Barkley, who resigned Sunday night.

Ullman had a busy night, also setting up one of two goals by left-winger Paul Henderson, as the Leafs coasted over the Red Wings in the only NHL game.

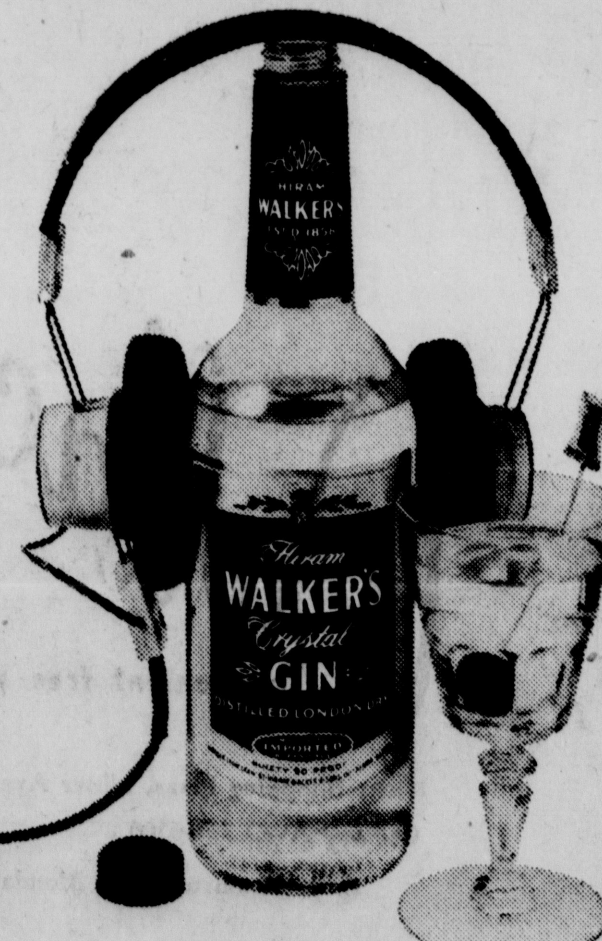

After Ellis got the winners going 1-0 in the first period, they put the game on ice with two second-period tallies.

Ullman stole the puck at center ice from Red Wings' defender Arnie Brown, then shuttled the puck to Henderson for a 40-foot scoring shot.

The Red Wings had several chances as Maple Leaf defensemen Rick Lev and Jim Dorey sat down with penalties but couldn't reach the Toronto net. Toronto then came back with an offensive burst as Ullman set up Ellis for a blistering slap shot from 45 feet that sailed the puck into the net before Red Wings' goaltender Al Smith could move.

Jo Smith and Marge Jansen Set for KWBA Hall of Fame

KINGSTON — Mrs. John J. (Jo) Smith and Mrs. Arthur (Marge) Jansen have been elected to the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association Hall of Fame.

Mrs. Jansen, who has been retired for the past several years, was cited for outstanding bowling. She was a member of the crack Kaye Sportswear exhibition team that rolled 2994 in 1947.

Mrs. Smith, a member of the KWBA's executive board, has been a bowling executive for two decades. Mrs. Jansen and Mrs. Smith are the 17th and 18th bowlers to be installed into the KWBA Hall of Fame.

The installation dinner is scheduled Sunday, Nov. 14, at 5 p.m. at the Capri. The dinner is open to the public and tickets may be purchased from any member of the KWBA board.

St. Joe's Keeps Winning

KINGSTON — St. Joseph's School notched its third victory of the season Sunday, defeating a Jewish Community Center team 49-23 at the losers' Poughkeepsie court in a CYO league tilt.

Mike Murphy led the winning effort with a 21-point performance, with good support from Fred Fleckinger, John Cook and Ray Guerin.

St. Joseph's, outscoring their opponents by an average of 30 2, Millman 1.

Yonkers Raceway For Sale

NEW YORK (UPI)—The sale of Yonkers Raceway, one of the foremost harness tracks in the nation, appeared imminent today. Purchase price would be in the multi-millions for 66 2/3 percent of the common stock, but according to Sam Gottlieb, attorney for the Westchester track, there has been agreement on the basic terms of the sale and finalization could come within two days. It is reported that Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Steeler team of the National Football League, is involved in the sale. Rooney owns the Shamrock Stable of thoroughbred fame, but purchase of the track would be his first venture into standard bred horse racing.

Stanley's two brothers, Martin and Al, died within a year of each other, and the sale springs from the efforts of attorneys for their respective estates to put the heirs' fortunes in other financial channels.

The track, rebuilt as a harness oval in 1950 under what became a controversial state law, attracted 2,964,109 fans and a parimutuel handle of $316,665,503 in 142 nights in 1970. The handle was the largest in track history.

Martin was the prime mover in the family for the purchase and later refurbishing of the track, and Al served as treasurer of the corporation.

The Tananbaum interests are widely diversified. They began and continue to be active in the garment industry, and are also owners of a taxicab fleet in New York City.

The New York State Harness Racing Commission said through a spokesman that no notification of the impending sale had come to them. Before the majority stock interest can pass from Stanley Tananbaum, and the estates of his brothers, potential purchasers must be cleared by the commission.

"When a letter of agreement to sell is presented," the spokesman said, "the commission would investigate and pass upon the qualifications of the potential purchasers."

Gottlieb said that it was reasonable to expect a confirmation of the deal.

Condors Stay in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Mark Binstein, who said last week the impending sale of the Condors meant that the American Basketball Association franchise would stay in Pittsburgh, now says the failure of the deal to go through also guarantees the team will stay in town.

Binstein, general manager of the club, appears to be wiser now than he was before.

The ABA Board of Governors, meeting in New York, Monday disapproved the proposed sale. Metro Sports Limited, a group of Washington, D. C., area businessmen, had offered Haven Industries, the New York Conglomerate that owns the team, a price reported in excess of $1.3 million.

But Jack Dolph, ABA commissioner, said the group would not assure the league they would stay bound by the constitution, by-laws, and contractual obligations of the league.

In other words, they wanted to move the team, as both Binstein and Leonard Blondes, one of three partners in Metro Sports Limited, both made clear.

Blondes, a lawyer, said the ABA's action bars professional basketball from the Washington area "totally and forever."

Blondes said one of the agreements the ABA wanted his group to sign would have recognized the rights of the ABA Virginia Squires to the Washington area if the ABA and the NBA merge.

The Binstein met with Don Bezahler, president of Haven Industries, in New York after the vote.

Blondes said Washington fans have never supported Baltimore teams. He said he thought the agreement was "totally unfair" to Washington area residents.

"The loss of a basketball team...a baseball team...and a soccer team has made Washington a second class city," he complained.

Binstein, who had hoped to stay in Pittsburgh as Condors general manager if the deal was approved, said: "I've never seen anything like it."

Ownership forsaking corporate advantages for the sake of a public vow they made to the city.

The Binstein met with Don Bezahler, president of Haven Industries, in New York after the vote.

"We tried to see what we have done wrong," said Binstein, who admitted disappointment in the Condors failure to draw more than 15,000 to their first seven home games this year.

"We know we can beat anybody... Kentucky, New York, the Bulls of the NBA," Binstein said.

He promised "a complete get tough attitude, from the front office to the 12th man on the roster."

"From here on in, we may lose games, but not without some blood on the floor," Binstein said.

The Condors, if they spill any blood this week, will be spilling it on the road. They start a four game road trip in Denver tonight.

BEAST AND BEAUTY — What happens when a delicate, 16-year-old, 112 pound girl sallies forth into the Canadian wilds of Northern Ontario, armed only with bow and arrow? The demise of a 325 pound bear is what happens! Unlikely as it might seem, this slightly built young lady, Anne Marie Fiaschetti, of Chapleau, Ontario, bagged her first bear with bow and arrow during this October's season for black bear. Based upon available information, it appears that young Miss Fiaschetti has taken with bow the largest bear in Ontario by a member of the "gentler sex." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Asher Gains Second PBA Tour Victory

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Barry Asher of Costa Mesa, Calif., scored his fourth Professional Bowling Association championship Monday night in the $50,000 American Airlines Open.

Asher won $6,000 in the tourney, boosting his 1971 earnings to $33,678 and moving into sixth place on the money.

Asher, who rose to fame as a teenager when he took the measure of Don Carter in a match game, moved to the top position in this competition late in the qualifying segment and never surrendered his lead.

He was ahead by 23 pins at the conclusion of the first of three six-game blocks, and kept adding to his margin when the match game phase started.

At the end of the opening block man against man, which awards the winner of each game a bonus of 30 pins, Asher had increased his lead to 134. After Monday's second set of eight games, he had a margin of 276 when he added 1,790 pins and four more wins in the final block.

Asher's 42 game pinfall including bonuses was 9,950 and he had a match game record of 16 victories, seven losses and one tie. His average for three days was more than 225.

Forty-two game pinfall and earnings of the leading scorers:

1. Barry Asher, Costa Mesa, Calif., 9,950—$6,000
2. Don McCune, Munster, Ind., 9,688—$3,200
3. Larry Laub, San Francisco, 9,496—$2,500
4. Roy Buckley, Columbus, Ohio, 9,486—$2,000
5. Jim Godman, Lorain, Ohio, 9,451—$1,500
6. Al Thompson, Cleveland, Ohio, 9,406—$1,400
7. Dave Soutar, Gilroy, Calif., 9,404—$1,300
8. Dick Weber, St. Louis, 9,363—$1,200
9. Gary Dickinson, Fort Worth, Tex., 9,348—$1,100
10. Mick McMahon, Portland, Ore., 9,342—$1,000.

Nets Acquire Gene Moore

By United Press International

Some of the players in the American Basketball Association hardly stay around long enough to learn their zip codes.

The latest league transactions involved New York, Utah and Dallas and Carolina.

New York was involved in two separate deals. The Nets acquired 6'9 center Gene Moore from Dallas for cash and a high draft choice and then sent 6'8 forward Manny Leaks to Utah under similar terms.

Utah made room for Leaks by sending forward George Stone to Carolina for a future draft choice.

The Nets, needing a big man as a sub for starting center Billy Paultz, got rebounding strength in the Moore acquisition. Moore, an ABA All-Star with Kentucky two years ago, averaged 8.2 rebounds in his first nine games with Dallas this season. Leaks, the man he replaces, averaged 4.4 rebounds a game with New York and had a 6.0 scoring average. In 80 games with Dallas and New York last season, Leaks averaged 16.2 points a game and recorded a 10.69 rebounding average.

Stone, who excited NIT fans as a collegiate gunner at Marshall University, was a first-line sub with Utah. He has a 14.5 point average in three ABA seasons and an ABA playoff record when he scored 20 points in the second period against Kentucky in the opening game of last season's playoffs.

Wallkill Coach Gets Union Post

SCHENECTADY

You don't always have to be a winning football coach to get a promotion.

Ken Michelson, who's in charge of three sports at Wallkill High School including the perennially hapless football team, Monday was named head track and freshman football coach at Union College.

The appointment is effective Dec. 1.

Michelson, 27, has been football, basketball, and track coach at the Ulster County high school since 1969. A native of Farmingdale, L.I., he graduated from Upper Iowa College where he was a Little All-America Football selection.

Michelson will succeed athletic director Bruce Allison as freshman gridiron mentor and Ron Coleman as track coach.

Cowboys' Neely Lost for Season

DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas Cowboys offensive left tackle Ralph Neely dislocated his left ankle and fractured a bone in his leg riding a motorcycle near Lake Grapevine Monday. Team officials said he would be out of action for the rest of the season.

Coach Tom Landry said he would probably move Don Talbert up to start in Neely's position and former Green Bay Packer Forrest Gregg probably would be activated as a backup man. Gregg was picked up on waivers earlier in the season. Talbert was traded from New Orleans.

"Obviously we are sorry for both Ralph and the team," Landry said.

A team spokesman said Neely was riding with several teammates near the Dallas-area lake when he caught his left toe in some underbrush while moving at about 10 miles an hour. His ankle was dislocated and the fibula in his left lower leg was fractured.

Neely, 6-6, 265-pounds, is a seven-year NFL veteran and a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

Neely joined five players injured in Sunday's loss to Chicago. Only one of them, Tom Stincic, is listed as only a possible player against St. Louis.

Manhattan Bites Ulster Hand

MORGAN HILL, forfeit," said Vizary. We'll play."

Talk about noblesse oblige! Talk about biting the hand that feeds you!

Talk about man's ingratitude to man! Put all these ancient aphorisms together and you get a slight idea of what happened at Oehler's Soccer Stadium in the murky shadows of late afternoon here Monday.

Ulster County Community College's 8-3 soccer Senators, driving for a Region XV invitation, were scheduled to host Manhattan Community College at 3 p.m. This was a Manhattan squad that had gone 10 straight games without a victory.

It was 3:58 p.m. and no Manhattan team in sight! It's a 1-0 forfeit in favor of Ulster, the game officials ruled. The officials, Coach George Vizary with a goal 6 minutes of the and the Ulster players started heading for the locker rooms across the street.

Just then the Manhattan bus hove into sight. What now, Coach Vizary? You have a forfeit victory, if you want it. It would bolster your chances for that Region XV invitation, you know.

A quick huddle with the officials ensued. "There'll be no ning defeat with characteristic good grace. "We could have taken the forfeit and played an exhibition game," explained the UCC coach, "but what would that have proved?"

"If we could beat them, we would do it in 15-minute quarters as well as in regulation time," he added. There is no sense trying to alibi the defeat and I don't intend to." We led 1-0 and 2-1 and still lost the game."

Vizary magnanimously made allowance for Manhattan's late arrival. "It wasn't the best day in the world to travel," he said, "especially when you're fighting city traffic."

If anything, the game again proved the unpredictability of the 1971 Ulster soccer team. They failed to clear the ball and made elementary mistakes against Manhattan — and lost a game they should have won.

The major confrontation with Staten Island Community — the 4th ranked junior college team in the nation — takes place Thursday at 3 p.m. at Oehler's.

This has been proclaimed Soccer Day at Ulster Community and several busloads of students are expected to attend the game. It could help. The Senators need all the help they can get at this stage.

The Ulster lineup: Goal-Samuelsen; RFB-Nay-smith; LFB-DeMambro; RHB-Barton; CHB-McDonald; LHB-Weber; OR-Salas; IR-Goglia.

CF-Romano; IL-St. Fleour; OL-Bassarear.

Ulster reserves — Gjertsen, Lazaric, Toner, Pons, Marc.

Scoring Summary

Ulster — Romano (Lazaric assist), 6 minutes, 3rd; Weber (Nasmyth assist), 9:15, 3rd; Manhattan — Moraiten (3) 6:30, 3rd; 8 minutes, 4th; 14 minutes, 4th.

Dobson 0-Hits Japanese

TOYAMA, Japan (AP) — Pat Dobson pitched a no-hit, no-run game today as the Baltimore Orioles edged the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants 2-0 on Boog Powell's two-run homer in the fourth inning.

The right-handed curveballer, one of Baltimore's four 20-game winners this season, allowed only three walks.

Had he pitched a perfect game, Dobson would have become the first U.S. major league pitcher to achieve such a feat during a preseason or post-season exhibition tour of Japan.

Thirteen American big league teams, including Casey Stengel's New York Yankees, Walter Alston's Brooklyn Dodgers and four separate all-Star squads, have played against Japan's major leaguers since 1931.

The Orioles scored their only runs in the fourth when Merv 3-3 tie last week.

Drug Group Hears Former Addicts

ROCHESTER — Two representatives of the Rochester Narcotics Guidance Council at a recent meeting in Rochester, N.Y., were guests of the Teen Challenge, former heroin addicts, were guests of the Town Council's activities, the future bi-monthly meetings will be held in the Town Hall in Accord every second and fourth Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Scheduled for the Nov. 9 meeting is the appearance of Thomas Mayone, investigator with District Attorney Francis Vogt's office who will show films and equipment relating to narcotic abuse.

The Teen Challenge representatives explained that their main concern is an ongoing battle with the drug problem, overcome his dependence on drugs by turning to God and accepting His help. Explaining how Teen Challenge helps a person help themselves, they firmly agreed that the only help for complete rehabilitation is in alteration of one's own feelings. The session was reported as "exciting" in that people from all walks of life were present and questions and answers came from all directions, taking the form of honest debate.

Viewpoints expressed were those of parents, straight teenagers, rehabilitated addicts and young adults involved in addiction.

Permanent counselling sessions have been established and are to be held beginning tonight at Town Hall and on subsequent Mondays. Trained counselors will personally consult with parents and young adults in a confidential and informal manner.

Huguenot Society Holds Branch Meets

NEW PALTZ — The Huguenot Historical Society has had three branch meetings during the past few months. Officers of the society go out to the branches to inform the membership of what has been taking place in the society.

Because many of the society's 3,000 members are unable to come to New Paltz to see the growth being made, it has been found helpful to acquaint the people with the goals achieved. The meetings were held at Jackson, Michigan; Hinsdale, Ill.; and Warren, Ohio.

Besides these three branches, there are branches of the society in Berkeley and Santa Barbara, Calif.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Washington, D.C.; and Noxen, Pa.

Drug Workshop Set For Wawarsing Area

WAWARSING — A drug workshop sponsored by the Clergy Association of the Town of Wawarsing will be held 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Nov. 13 at the Ellenville Central School. Representatives of a number of organizations are scheduled to speak, including the Renaissance Project, Wawar, Irving Turkfeld, co-director of Southern Ulster Mental Health Clinic, Narcotics Addiction Center, 120 Canal Street, Ellenville.

Man Awaits Extradition From Ulster County Jail

ELLENVILLE — A 22-year-old man was confined in the Ulster County jail today awaiting extradition to Michigan where he is wanted as a fugitive from justice according to State Police.

Richard J. Barkley, of Dearborn, Mich., was taken in custody early Sunday morning by Trooper John M. Lang for a routine check. Police said a subsequent check on the computer system disclosed the man is wanted in Michigan for jumping bail following his arrest on a felony drugs count.

Barkley was arrested in a commune in Ulster Heights, troopers noted.

United Way Has Raised $161,682.64 During Drive

KINGSTON — In its second public campaign progress report, the United Way of Ulster County disclosed that $161,682.64 has been raised to date in its fund drive for 15 member agencies.

The largest part of the total has come from corporate and industrial divisions, where in-plant solicitation of employees and corporate gifts has been in progress for several weeks. These divisions have reported a combined total to date of $129,347.85.

Executive Giving, which also started its drive in advance of the general public campaign, reports another $16,155.

Other divisions, which are now in full operation, but with many workers still to make their reports, include: banking, $6,522.80; Kingston retail, including national firms and special events, $5,036.40; Kingston special gifts and individual, $1,874.99; township campaigns, $1,378.00. All other divisions, with solicitation just getting underway, account for a total of $1,367.60 to date.

It was also announced today that the United Way office in the Governor Clinton Hotel will be open for the convenience of campaign volunteers from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., now through Thanksgiving.

C.Y.O. Bids Goodbye To Father Hamilton

SAUGERTIES — The St. Mary of the Snow Catholic Youth Organization held its first meeting of the 1971-72 season recently, and said goodbye to its moderator, Father Hamilton, who has been assigned to a new parish in Ellenville as pastor.

Any teen in grades 9-12 may join the organization. Meetings are every second and fourth Wednesday of the month in the St. Mary's School cafeteria. Members are reminded to bring their dues and insurance money to the next meeting.

Some of the activities planned for the year include trips and a bowling league.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, November 3

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The likelihood that you will let your temper get out of control is still a part of today's and tonight's aspects of a planetary nature. Make sure you rise above the temptation to argue or to criticize others. If you truly live the Golden Rule today and tonight, you get others to think you are tops.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you renege on some promise to another you can get into deep trouble now, so be scrupulous instead. Trying to force mate to go along with ideas that are not good would meet with stiff resistance. Get wise to yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Using a gentle approach with all others instead to a forceful one gets you the right results today and tonight. Doing whatever improves your health and attractiveness is wise. Do not get into arguments with others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) By observing others' mistakes now, you see how to avoid making the same ones yourself. Try to be of real assistance to one who is having some kind of trouble. Think out your plans for the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't depend on a friend for advice regarding some project you have in mind, since this individual has troubles right now. Forget social affairs in the evening. You could get into some bad argument.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Forget all that devious angling and handle all affairs in a straightforward, honest manner, and get right results. Being of moral assistance to a troubled bigwig is wise. Show that you are loyal.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you air your troubles to good associates, you could lose some of the fine rapport you now enjoy with them. Do that studying which is helpful, though not too easy at first. Schedule your time wisely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put thoughts of recreation aside now and get busy handling all those responsibilities ahead of you well so that you please higher-ups, get good benefits. Don't use sharp words with mate. Avoid troubles there, too.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FATHER PROBLEM: (Q) When I was younger I thought father just liked teen-age girls the way any other man does. Now I know that isn't so. Any time a girl is around him she is in danger of being pinched, kissed, or more.

I am 15 and a girl and I can't have any of my girl friends in my home because I am afraid of what will happen to them. Besides, I have no friends to invite. By now all of them know my father. Because of him they will have nothing to do with me.

For a while I had a special "girl friend" 17 years old. She was supposed to be visiting me but she was really there to sit in my father's lap and other things. Finally, I refused to have anything to do with this deal and it was dropped.

What can I do? He doesn't fool with me but his fooling with other girls so openly bruises me badly. I have a younger brother who also knows, and suffers.—Hurt in Maine.

(A) Talk to your father. Let him know you know everything. Tell him how what he does hurts you. Ask him to try to figure out some solution, perhaps through counseling.

He may deny everything, or tell you to mind your own business. But your frank statement of the facts may sink in on him and help him eventually to change his ways.

Thank you for writing and reminding girl readers that there are men such as he, and that they are dangerous.

BIRTHDAY: (Q) I like this guy very much and I'm sure he likes me, but I'm not exactly going with him. Since I'm not going with him, would a card be enough for his birthday, or would something else a little more significant be OK? Just to show him that I really care?—Really Do in Wisconsin.

(A) Because you are not going with the boy, either as a steady or apparently even on an occasional date, it would be better to give or send him a card rather than a gift. The card will remind him that you like him.

Foreign Aid Rescue-Lobbyists Try Hand

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lobbyists are trying to pry from Congress as much money as they can to rescue the foreign-aid program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he is prepared to see the whole program halted if that is what it takes to force a total overhaul of the foreign-aid program.

The United States, he said, is spending twice as much on military as on economic and technical assistance, and "we ought to stop, look and listen," then reform the program.

Mansfield said in an interview he would not be averse to seeing it lapse while reform is considered.

The White House said it is essential that Congress adopt a resolution to continue foreign-aid spending authority past Nov. 15, the date it is due to expire.

Mansfield said he remains opposed to any such resolution.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who also wants a new look developed in U.S. foreign aid, said he would agree to a 30-day extension of the current program to provide time for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to fashion a new one.

"The Senate has rejected the old program, and the administration must come to terms with that fact," Church said.

He said the Senate will not approve any carbon copy of the $2.9 billion foreign aid bill it rejected in a surprising 41-27 vote last Friday.

Church also said military aid should be substantially reduced, with the use of U.S. military appropriations in Indochina forbidden for any purposes but withdrawal. The administration is bitterly opposed to such a restriction, which was defeated earlier by the Senate.

"I think we can pass it," Church said Monday.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird met with President Nixon for an hour Monday, and said afterwards rejection of the foreign-aid program would jeopardize the U.S. program of withdrawal from South Vietnam.

"The success of the American withdrawal action from Vietnam and the whole negotiations field will be affected by such an action," Laird said.

He said economic aid to South Vietnam is essential to create the conditions for U.S. withdrawal. The bill the Senate rejected included $565 million in aid to go along with the $1.8 billion in military assistance provided South Vietnam in separate legislation.

White House legislative strategists had hoped to gain from Congress a four-month extension of the current program, through next Feb. 15.

But Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House

Appropriations Committee, said Monday he would approve only a "quickie, stop-gap" resolution to extend spending authority through Dec. 15, or through the end of the current session of Congress.

So the White House lobbying team changed signals and accepted that timetable, but planned to press for another continuation resolution if no new foreign-aid bill is enacted in this session.

White House sources said President Nixon does not plan to send Congress a new foreign-aid message now, because time is too short.

The continuing resolution envisioned by Mahon would authorize aid spending at a rate equal to about $2.9 billion annually, the level of the rejected Senate bill.

White House sources said their strategy would be to seek as high an aid-spending level as can be obtained in the House, on the theory that the Senate would cut it sharply in any event, and that the final level would be worked out between the two.

Nixon's Program Clicking

NEW YORK (AP) — The economic steps taken by President Nixon to improve America's foreign trade are having their hoped-for effect.

American exports are higher and imports lower despite a general slowdown in international trade.

With Phase 1 of the economic policy coming to a close, here are its trade effects:

—The United States is selling more overseas than it is buying. However, with war and other expenses, it is still spending more than it earns.

—Foreigners are increasing their investment in America.

—Farmers are finding less competition from imported meat.

—Machinery builders are increasing sales at home as well as abroad.

These advantages have been gained at the expense of other countries. A "worrying slowdown" in international commerce is hurting European countries and Japan. Their export volume is down and their unemployment is growing.

This is not entirely due to the world recession, which has been incubating for months. But a lot of it, in the words of London banker Frederic See-bohm, is due "to a heavy reduction of international trade which is happening now and is very worrying."

The United States' apparent immunity to the worst of this is proven by last week's trade figures which showed it sold a quarter billion dollars more than it bought in September. Some of the big gain in exports—$4.51 billion compared to $3.68 billion in August—was due to a hasty shipment of goods before the dock strike started.

However, in general the floating exchange rates and the 10 per cent extra duty on imports seems to be having the effect President Nixon expected when he put them in Aug. 15. The float reduced the cost of American goods sold overseas.

Volkswagen is starting to buy front wheel bearings from American makers and in an effort to beat the surcharge Sony Corp. of Japan is starting an electronics factory in California.

American farmers are helped because the surcharge applies to some kinds of imported meats. About 380 million pounds of imported meat is subject to the higher duty. Since it costs more than it did before, American cattlemen have a better chance to fill this market.

Foe Shoots Down Two More Copters

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners shot down two more U.S. helicopters in the central highlands, raising announced American aircraft losses in the Indochina war to 8,004 planes and helicopters, the U.S. Command announced today.

One crewman was wounded in the crashes Monday of an OH6 light observation helicopter 17 miles west of Pleiku and a UH1 Huey transport.

Ground fighting continued in Laos and Cambodia because of the low level of fighting in South Vietnam. The big Stratofortresses hammered the Ho Chi Minh trail in eastern Laos and storage depots in eastern Cambodia.

American artillery blasted North Vietnamese positions in Cambodia and in the southern half of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said.

Meanwhile, Marshal Lon Nol, Cambodia's semi-invalid prime minister, flew on Monday to his army's northeastern front where Cambodian troops along a 30-mile stretch of Highway 6 are holding out against fierce enemy attacks, the Cambodian military command reported.

The marshal, who is still parially paralyzed by a stroke suffered last February, made a surprise visit to the town of Barray, the headquarters for the thrust up Highway 6.

Informed sources said the marshal has now recovered sufficiently to work half-days.

Wave Toll May Hit 10,000

NEW DELHI (UPI)—At least 3,000 persons and possibly up to 10,000 were killed in a group of hamlets struck by a cyclonic storm and tidal wave on the Bay of Bengal coast of India's Orissa state, the official All-India Radio reported Monday.

The radio said unofficial estimates reaching Bhubaneswar, the capital of Orissa state, said up to 4 million persons were believed homeless from the storm and accompanying 90-mile-an-hour winds.

The radio said a group of hamlets along the coastline near the port of Paradip bore the brunt of a tidal wave more than 15 feet high Friday night. Most of the deaths officially reported were in the hamlets.

The radio reported that unofficial estimates said the eventual death toll could reach 10,000. The Press Trust of India reported were in the hamlets.

Parts of five districts were affected by the storm, including some areas where refugees from the East Pakistan civil war were living in camps. PTI reported from Bhubaneswar late Friday night that the latest official reports set the number of dead at "no less than 5,000."

The PTI quoted "eyewitness reports" from one area of Cuttack district in Orissa as saying large numbers of human bodies and cattle carcasses were floating in flood waters. A lull with only small clashes reported, but the U.S. Command said helicopter gunships killed 24 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the Mekong Delta 140 miles southwest of Saigon.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two members of a women's peace group said Monday they were told in North Vietnam recently that American prisoners of war would be released if President Nixon would fix a date for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam.

Mrs. Amy Swerdlow and Mrs. Irma Zigas, of the Woman's Strike for Peace, said they returned Friday from a 12-day tour of the North Vietnamese countryside.

Mrs. Swerdlow, of Great Neck, N.Y., said that "all during our visit, we were assured that they (the POWs) would be released as soon as Nixon

POW Freedom if Withdrawal

"They make a big point of differentiating between the American people and our government. They feel it is the government which is their enemy," Mrs. Swerdlow said.

In New York, meanwhile, the Army has canceled a leave for Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert, the officer who recently accused of a downed American pilot who was formerly listed as missing in action.

Reached at Ft. McPherson, Herbert said he had been granted the leave earlier, but that an order dated Oct. 28 and given him Monday canceled the leave. His commanding officer, Herbert said, told him, "If you're planning to go on Mr. Cavett's show, you can just forget it."

The post's public information officer said, "It is true that Herbert had originally been granted a two-day leave and the reason was not given. When it was learned his request for leave was for an appearance on the Cavett show, it was decided by his commander that this was not a valid reason for granting him leave."

Killing Frost Avoids Most State Areas

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — While portions of the Rocky Mountains have been blanketed by severe snow storms, and chilled by record-breaking low temperatures, most areas in New York State have yet to experience a killing frost.

According to the National Weather Service office in Albany, first frost of the season usually comes on or about Oct. 13. The temperature dipped to the freezing mark here on Oct. 18, but it was a very light frost. The agricultural growing season continues in much of the state.

In the Albany area the date of the first killing frost can vary widely from year to year. It has been as early as Sept. 14 in 1963 and as late as Nov. 15 in 1946.

Indira En Route With Persuasion

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India flew to the United States on Wednesday seeking to persuade President Nixon to reassess and revise the whole basis of Indian-American relations.

Senior authorities who portrayed her thinking said Mrs. Gandhi considers that American backing for Pakistan, in the name of political leverage, is delaying a political settlement of the East Bengal crisis.

If it goes on unchanged she is convinced, according to Indian informants, the steady drift toward another Pakistan-Indian war will gather momentum.

Mrs. Gandhi is on a tour of Western capitals. She already has visited Vienna and Brussels, and from London she will go to Washington, Paris and Bonn.

The Indian leader has hopes Nixon will respond favorably to her call for an examination in depth of Indian-American relations with a view to revising their basis. As she is believed to see it, one of the most distinguishing characteristics of the Nixon administration has been its readiness to break new ground in foreign policy.

This has been dramatically expressed in a variety of ways, including the President's initiatives to improve relations with Communist China, toward negotiating with Moscow on a range of big issues and toward recasting the world's money system.

At a moment when the Indian subcontinent is haunted by the specter of a new war flowing from the East Bengal tragedy, the Indian government is taking the position it would not be too much to expect the President to undertake the reappraisal of Indian relations.

To Mrs. Gandhi and her advisors, sources said, past U.S. policy in the Indian subcontinent has made little sense because it has brought neither peace, prosperity or stability to Pakistan nor equilibrium to Indian-American relations. Nevertheless, informants stressed, there is no fundamental clash of interests between New Delhi and Washington.
